

BOYS BRIGADE - COMPANY SECTION (2011)

When requested by the Boys Brigade leaders to make a banner with the Company Section, it was considered important to have a strong message that would be relevant to the boys, as in their teens they face so many changes and challenges.

‘Put on the Full Armour of God’ seemed appropriate. The book ‘Trained for Battle’ by Tony Howson helped in the design process, as did samples of clipart and websites about Roman Centurions. Rich, bold textiles, including leather (from a fabulous selection kindly donated from a hand-made shoe shop in Pitlochry) were selected. The boys worked in small groups on the panels, and showed great enthusiasm and aptitude.
